TRANSITION TO WORK

Supporting young people on their pathway to employment

Transition to Work is a youth employment program initiated by the Australian Government. Its purpose is to provide support for young people to help them gain a paid position or further education.

Supporting your career pathway

Whether you have left school early or have had difficulty finding a job after completing your education, we're here to help.

Our team not only assist in keeping you on track with achieving your goals, but we also work with you to develop abilities that will enable you to move forward in your career of choice.

While it may seem overwhelming at first, with the assistance of a friendly team to support and chat with you, we want to help you achieve outcomes that will lead to sustainable employment.

What services can you get?

Develop practical skills for use in a work environment

Connect with education or training to further your abilities

Find and complete work placements for real-life experience

Find career opportunities in the local area

Connect with relevant local community services

Who is eligible?

Transition to Work is designed to help young people who are early school leavers or those who have had difficulty entering the workforce on school completion. To participate in the Transition to Work program, you must meet the following criteria:

- Aged 15-24, and
- An Australian citizen, or
- The holder of a permanent visa, or
- New Zealand Special Category Visa, or
- Nominated Visa (including Temporary Protection or Safe Haven Visa)

Other requirements for eligibility will also depend on your circumstances, including whether you:

- Have been awarded a Year 12 certificate or Certificate III
- Have been in a paid position within the last six months
- Receive an income support payment such as Youth Allowance
- Are currently participating in another employment service, including Workforce Australia Employment Services.

How does it work?

The Transition to Work service has a strong focus on practical intervention and work experience to build a young person's skills, confidence and readiness to engage in employment.

BUSY is experienced working with disengaged and disadvantaged young people, and have strong links with employers, community services and schools within their local community.

Services for employers

As your Transition to Work Provider, BUSY will deliver high quality services to employers to recruit young employees who meet their business needs and are supported to settle into a job. BUSY will ensure participants receive pre-employment skills development that is directly relevant to needs of employers and local labour market conditions.

For eligible young people, a youth wage subsidy of up to $10,000 for a 6 month period is available to help employers take on new starters, such as any hiring or training costs. We also offer post placement support for up to 26 weeks. This includes regular contact to ensure the young person is settling in and that the employer's expectations are being met.
